

ANDREW VETTERLEIN

Andrew grew up skiing and started alpine racing at Mt. Bachelor at a young age. The youngest of five, he watched his brothers have success in the Sun Cup, NorAms, and later in college and the Coors Pro Tour. Wanting a piece of the action, Andrew jumped at the opportunity to attend Holderness School and later the University of Colorado, Boulder, racing on their B team. After finishing college Andrew went on to a 27-year career in the sportswear manufacturing industry at Nike and Amersports. Having never lost his love of ski racing, Andrew returned to it in the 90s. First, with City League night races at Ski Bowl, then Master's racing. Two ACL reconstructions later, persistent strength and conditioning, plus a LOT of great coaching, he can finally say "I'm skiing better now, at 57, than I was in college."
